

CISO as a Service: Filling In The Security Gap

If you think your organisation is an unlikely target of a cyber attack, think again. Your organisation has data the minute it starts. Protecting confidential data such as financials, intellectual property and customers' personal information is a serious task that requires adequate security leadership, a Chief Information Security Officer (CISO)

CHALLENGES IN CREATING A STRATEGIC SECURITY ENVIRONMENT

What factors are keeping your current CISOs taking a more strategic enterprise role? Does your organisation need a CISO?

New CISO who requires guidance and exposure to business development skills

Inability to communicate clearly to the Board on security and business objectives

Security spending is rising and you need a CISO to justify the returns of investment in security and ensure security budget is effectively spent

Lack of leadership in IT skillsets and security strategies

HOW CISO AS A SERVICE CAN HELP YOUR BUSINESS

CISO as a Service is the ideal choice when there isn't a full time requirement for a CISO or when the existing CISO could benefit from some assistance.

- Provide knowledge leadership and advice to board on security
- Accountability on security functions
- Develop and monitor sustainable security strategy that aligns to business objectives
- Gain confidence from investors and clients
- Free from the commitment of hiring a full time CISO

“We run our own business and we work with c-level executives all the time. We understand what they want and know how to help them”
